

THE WEST MIDLANDS

ONE HEART OF THE UK, MANY WAYS TO EXPLORE

ONE DRAMATIC DESTINATION, MANY TWISTS TO DISCOVER

The Birmingham 2022 Commonwealth Games injects an action-packed line-up of sport and culture into the heart of England this year. But that's just the start. Expect a feast of Michelin-starred restaurants, immersive tours and plenty of ways to get around. Choose to explore the city's waterways by foot, bike or kayak. Follow in the footsteps of the Peaky Blinders, check out the UK's latest City of Culture, Coventry, or visit the birthplace of the bard himself, William Shakespeare's Stratford-upon-Avon. All across the West Midlands, you'll find a host of things to see and do, alongside experiences which plunge you into this melting pot of creativity and innovation.

SAME PLACES, DIFFERENT WAYS TO EXPLORE

Spy Birmingham's soaring heights from the secretive rooftop gardens of the Library of Birmingham, an architectural gem packed with free exhibitions. Or head to the city's 200-year-old Jewellery Quarter for great eats and quirky museums. Shop until you drop at the award-winning The Bullring, or chill canal-side in the lively cafes and bars of Brindleyplace. Take a canal-side tour, or drop in at Digbeth's old Custard Factory for a taste of its buzzing music scene and haven of delicious street food stalls.

UNMISSABLE ART AND CULTURE

Stratford-upon-Avon gave the world William Shakespeare. Visit the Bard's birthplace and the former home of his wife, Anne Hathaway's Cottage before catching a performance of his works at the Royal Shakespeare Theatre. Or soak in the sounds of Birmingham's world class orchestra, featuring everything from classical compositions to film scores like Star Wars. Uncover the birthplace of the Peaky Blinders and spot filming locations at the Black Country Living Museum. Head to Coventry to learn about the birth of 2-Tone music or pop in to Stoke-on-Trent's World of Wedgwood for a whistle-stop ceramic tour through Britain's industrial and design heritage.

CELEBRATE IN 2022!

Alongside being the home of the Birmingham 2022 Commonwealth Games in July, the city hosts the Birmingham Festival from March. This six-month set of carnivals, dancing, art and cultural celebrations is sure to showcase the region's rich diversity and creative spirit. Or journey into space at the Reel Store, Coventry's brand new immersive digital art gallery, a legacy of the city's year as UK City of Culture 2021.
